HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

The Jewish Hospital School of Nursing was founded in 1902. The School was dedicated to Jewish traditions and values: the tradition of respect for the pursuit of learning and the transmission of knowledge; and the value of sharing healing with all people without discrimination. Until its closure in 1994, the School of Nursing awarded diplomas to more than 3,300 nurses.

The Jewish Hospital College of Nursing and Allied Health was founded in 1993 as a private, not-for-profit, non-sectarian institution of higher education. The College, in honoring its history, existed to provide a learning community dedicated to the preparation of liberally educated, competent, caring and socially responsible healthcare practitioners. To achieve its mission, the College was committed to fostering excellence in teaching and scholarly inquiry, ensuring an environment which exemplifies caring and service to the community, preparing students with the attributes of responsible citizens who are committed to lifelong learning, developing creative, capable, and culturally sensitive practitioners and promoting academic rigor and an open exchange of ideas.

The Jewish Hospital School of Medical Technology, founded in 1955, was transferred to the sponsorship of the School of Nursing (the College) in 1992.

The Barnes Hospital School of Cytotechnology, founded in 1964, became part of the College in 1994.

The Barnes-Jewish School of Radiologic Technology, founded in 1950, and the Barnes-Jewish School of Radiation Therapy Technology, founded in 1967, were originally under the sponsorship of Washington University, Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology. They became degree programs at the College in 1998.

The Jewish Hospital Dietetic Internship was founded in 1918 as a post-baccalaureate certificate program. The transfer of the program to the College was completed in 2000. Barnes-Jewish College, as of 2003, offered a master's degree program with a concentration in nutrition.

Beginning in 2002, in celebration of the College Centennial, alumni of 50 years or more were honored with special medallions.

Barnes Hospital School of Nursing was founded in 1955 and operated for 40 years providing academic excellence. The school closed in 1995 and the Barnes name was loaned to the University of Missouri at Saint Louis - School of Nursing, which for a ten year period was called the Barnes College of Nursing at UMSL. In 2005, the decision was made to bring the Barnes name back to the same campus where it was started.

In January 2005, the time-honored names Barnes and Jewish were brought together to proudly rename the college as the Barnes-Jewish College of Nursing and Allied Health. A strategic plan was developed by the College's Board of Trustees that called for constructing a new building on the medical center campus and becoming one of the top nursing programs in the country. The plan called for transitioning the allied health programs out of the College. With the last classes of allied health graduates completing their programs in May of 2007, the College was renamed Barnes-Jewish College of Nursing.

In December of 2007, a large donation by Saint Louis businessman and philanthropist, Alvin Goldfarb, changed the name to Goldfarb School of Nursing at Barnes-Jewish College. The spectacular new $40 million, 105,000 square foot building, Goldfarb Hall, opened for classes in January 2008.

COLLEGE SEAL

The Goldfarb School of Nursing at Barnes-Jewish College seal incorporates elements from the three legacy organizations: Jewish Hospital School of Nursing, Barnes Hospital School of Nursing and the Barnes-Jewish College of Nursing and Allied Health.

The seal of the Jewish Hospital School of Nursing featured a shield with the ornate letters JH (for Jewish Hospital) in light blue and white against a gold background. This seal was also depicted on a pin which was awarded to graduates of the school. The shield in its entirety is at the center of the new seal, signifying the oldest entity of the three legacy organizations. The year of its founding, 1902, is on the right side of the seal.

The round shape of the seal is the same as the Barnes Hospital School of Nursing seal, awarded to graduates as a pin. The wreath of garland and the dark blue band around the perimeter also derive from the Barnes seal, as do the Nightingale lamp, a symbol of nursing through the ages, and the open book, signifying knowledge and a place of learning. The year of the founding of Barnes Hospital School of Nursing, 1955, is on the left side of the seal.

The seal of the Barnes-Jewish College of Nursing and Allied Health, awarded as a pin to nursing and allied health graduates, was in the shape of the Arch that graces Saint Louis' downtown skyline and serves as the symbol of America's Gateway to the West. The Arch became a part of the new seal and ties the seal to the college's geographic location, the wonderful city of Saint Louis.

The year 2007 is featured at the bottom of the seal to commemorate the renaming of the college to Goldfarb School of Nursing at Barnes-Jewish College.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

Academic institutions over the centuries have created a wide variety of customs including distinctive dress, color and ceremony to indicate the accomplishments of scholars. By the twentieth century, institutions of higher learning in the United States had also adopted a code for academic regalia which includes differentiating academic degrees by distinctive gowns, hoods and colors.

Caps: Caps, hats or mortarboards are made of the same material as the gown. A velvet hat indicates the doctorate. A long tassel fastened at the center of the top of the cap is in the color representative of the major (e.g., apricot for nursing, salmon pink for allied health, golden yellow for science, lemon for library science, purple for law, and light blue for education). A gold tassel indicates the doctorate. Candidates for graduation wear the tassel on the right front side.

Gowns: The black associate and baccalaureate gown is identified by long, pleated front panels and long open sleeves. The master's gown has very long tubular sleeves, closed at the bottom with an opening on the front of the sleeves. Doctoral gowns are usually distinguished by parallel vertical panels of dark blue or black velvet on the front of the gown and three bars of velvet on the sleeve. The panels represent learning and scholarship. Occasionally, the velvet panels and/or the gown color represent a university's colors.

Hood: In the United States, the hood is the most colorful feature of academic regalia. The bachelor's hood is comparatively short; the master's is somewhat longer. The doctoral hood, at four feet, reaches far down the wearer's back. The outside of the hood is black or dark blue, bordered with bands of velvet in the color representing the major. The hood is lined with the colors of the granting institution. For example, the Master of Science in Nursing hood will have an apricot border with a distinctive blue and white lining.

GONFALONS

The gonfalon is a flag or standard which originated in the medieval republics of Italy as an ensign of state or office. Gonfalons have been adopted in many universities as college or institutional insignias. The College gonfalon features the College seal at its center.

CEREMONIAL MACE

The ceremonial mace adds meaning and dignity to the commencement ritual. It reminds both participants and spectators that education is one of the most cherished attributes of a free and democratic society. Historically, the use of a mace dates back to the middle ages and was carried before or placed near a magistrate or other dignitary as a sign of authority.

The Barnes-Jewish College mace is made of bronze with a brushed chrome finish. The top of the mace depicts the College seal on both sides. The mace is carried by the designated leader of the faculty organization, symbolic of the faculty's essential role as the creator and guardian of the various curricula as well as the faculty's role in recommending the conferral of a certain degree to the College Board of Trustees.
